Demand for Intervention Grows in Washington.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, March 9.—Secretary Lansing announced late today that a request would probably be sent to General Carranza before hight asking permission to send United States troops into Mexico to capture the Villa bandits, the early this morning raided Columbus, New lexico.

Columbus, New Mexico, March 9.—(By Associated Press) Five hundred Villa bandits attacked this town at 4:30 this oming, killed a number of civilians, men and women, and ad possession of the town for an hour and a half.

Driven off by three troops of the Thirteenth Cavalry, they theated at 6 o'clock, leaving part of the town in flames.

A large number of Mexicans were killed. Their bodies tted the streets, where they had been posted picking off mericans as they emerged pell mell from dwellings and ho-

Although the bandits first attacked the camp of the reenth Cavalry, it suffered little although several Amerisoldiers were killed and wounded and a number of cavalry were ridden off by the Mexicans as they fled back to the bodies of a number of Mexican Mexico at daylight.

The attack was a complete surprise, Villa deceiving all writies by dispatching a telegram to Hachita, Mexico, last saying that he was near the border but at least fortymiles from here.

caretaker at a ranch where Villa was supposed to be stopping, and stated that Villa personally was at the ranch house.

All the while, however, the Mexican bandit leader was making his way from Bosques Grandes ranch, about 25 miles southwest of here.

Colonel H. J. Slocum, commanding the Thirteenth Cavalry, had heavy patrols out and two troops of cavalry at Gib son's ranch, 15 miles west.

Carranza customs guards at the border gates three miles south of Columbus had dug a few rifle pits for the 50 Carranza soldiers who fled from Palomas when Villa appeared in Villa's men apparently came over the line at this point, and the Carranza soldiers were reported to have joined them, Berlin Claims Capdeploying in open order.

Villa sent them up a deep ditch running from the border and parallelling the road skirting the United States Army camp, the customs house and the railroad station.

The fight began here in the town, and the families of A. Paris Announces that L. Riggs, customs officer, and that of L. Jager, a station agent of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad, were in the midst of but no members of either family were hurt.

Several American citizens in Columbus declared they personally saw Villa directing his men.

A grip, containing Villa's personal papers, was discovered by troops after the fighting.

The number of American soldiers killed is placed at six. Nine civilians are known to be dead. They include eight men and one woman.

Before the attack, the Villa bandits hanged three Americans whom they had held as prisoners for several days, according to information received here. Their bodies were burned, the report said.

The villages of Ferges and Regneville, the heights of Raben and the Cumieres woods fell into the hands of the Germans.

The Frenca did not give up the positions without strong resistance and suffered heavy casualties, especially along the southern fringe of the Cumieres woods, the Germans report.

In the Corbeaux woods, which was occupied recently by the Germans, the French launched a heavy counter attack and drove the Germans out of the greater part of the position. A German attack with heavy effectives against the French Bethincourt lines was repulsed.

East of the Meuse the Germans have recaptured the Hardaumont redoubt, over which there has been such heavy fighting, and in a linestraightening maneuver have made progress on a front of about five miles along the southern slopes of the Cote de Talo and the Cote du Poivre and ir the Douaumont region.

In the Woevre district, south of Douaumont, they have forced the French to lose their hold on outlying positions they held in the village of Fresnes. Here, the Germans assert. they captured 700 prisoners. In the Meuse hills the French artillery is counter shelling the guns of the Ger-

The House Action

The House has joined the Senate in sustaining, by a vote so decisive as to be almost overwhelming, the position taken We President Wilson in the diplomatic discussion with Germany regarding the submarine warfare.

This should and probably will end all attempts by the legislative branch of the government to assume jurisdiction in matters that are and should be peculiarly within the province of the executive.

So far as issuing a warning to American citizens to so demean themselves as not to unnecessarily involve this country in controversies which might lead to war, the great majorty of people were in accord.

The contention between the executive and congress did not seem to rest upon the advisability of issuing such a warning so much as it did upon whose duty and right it was to take

The president felt that, at least pending the diplomatic discussions with Germany, congress should not attempt any action which would indicate to the world a lack of confidence m his ability to discharge every duty incumbent upon him.

After all the matter was more one of form than of substance but in these times, with the world aflame with war, appearances count for more than they do under ordinary condi-

March Weather

March, thus far, and this is the ninth day, has been justifying its well established reputation as a month of sudden and marked changes, violent winds and all kinds of weather.

The birds that have returned from the south lands like the tourists who have returned from Florida are puzzled most f the time and a considerable part of the time convinced that hey have made a mistake in coming north at this time.

The warm rains and soft southern breezes encouraged any bulbs to send their delicate shoots up through the surace of the earth only to be greeted with cold rains, ice, snow and freezing temperature. In the protected places the first few days of March rought the tulip and hyancinth sprouts above the ground, lilac and other early forms of bush and tree life gave unmistakable evidences of waking from their winter slumbers. The coming of the winter blasts, however, have checked all such inclinations now and only the rashest have dared to venture forth. The newly appointed weather bureau man at Columbus, wever, has done pretty well "guessing" what the March days were going to bring in the way of weather. It is yet too early to make flower and vegetable gardens, ave around the library tables. While the next few weeks now May bring some bright sunny days we should not be unmind ful of the fact that this is March.

So far destructive storms have been lacking and ice and seet so costly to wire service have been almost wholly lacking.

Verdun

The Germans, with that grim determination and utter disregard of the cost in men and ammunition, still keep up the Perrible bombardments and assaults against Verdun.

The losses suffered by the Teutons have been frightfuleven Berlin admits that fact—but with absolutely no indicanon of abandoining the purpose to take Verdun the attacks are maintained at all points on the French lines with an equal or greater vigor than marked the beginning of the campaign.

The campaign now being waged by the army of the Crown Prince is conspicuous for its brilliancy and stubborness, indeed so pronounced is the grim determination as to create the im Pression that the fight is one of desperation.

With a sharp knife whittle away the brittle outer bark down to the white fiber or inner side of the bark of which the brush is to be made. Cut a piece of this to the length and width required for the brush. Soak one end of this piece in hot water for a few minutes Lay the water sonked end on a hard substance, such as a soce of iron or hard wood, and beat it out with a hammer, dipping it in the water oc casionally to keep it thoroughly wet. The beating will cause the tough fibers of the bark to separate at the end, these forming an excellent and inexpensive brush which never sheds hairs and lasts longer than the cheap brush commonly sold at the stores.-Popular

COLONEL BOWIE'S KNIFE.

The Original Weapon Was Presented to Edwin Forrest, As a very small child I remember a bowie knife that was kept hanging from a high post bed. It was my joy when alone to draw up a chair, place a cricket on that, then climb up, clasping Frank Myers to Chas. Schreiner the bedpost with one arm and with the other drawing the bowie knife as far from the sheath as I dared. I can feel now the murderous gleam of the steel and the thrilling sense of danger.

I do not know what has become of this knife, but there are several among the Bowie family in Maryland and one which, I think, is asserted to be the original is preserved at the Players'

The original was fashioned from an old file under the personal supervision of Colonel Rezin P. Bowie by Jesse Cliffe, the plantation blacksmith, and given to his brother. Colonel James Bowle, who made it famous and gave it to the actor Forrest after having used it in nineteen deadly encounters. Colonel Bowie was called by the Infollowers the Young Lion, yet we are also told that he was the most peaceable man in the world if you let him alone. His portrait is that of a strong man and a gentleman thoroughly dis- rangue by a youth of twelve, who sai illusioned and as true as steel. Pinanciers are shown in business, dinner and ball room Beautiful women, wearing the latest low-cut modes and sparkling with necklaces and tiaras, move through scenes that rival in magnificance those of the "Arabian Knights." All manner of elegant furniture of all periods, hangings and rugs of ancient handicraftmanship, the finest work of the old masters, in oil or marble, all the things that delight the eye are shown in the interiors of fashionable homes in "The Conqueror." In contrast to the suave manners of the well born is the contrast of Wil-Mard Mack as "The Wolf of Wall Street." He pays no attention to the little amenities and turns his back on society men and women with per fect unconcern at their pleasure.

Willard Mack is most ably supported by beautiful Enid Markey. In conjunction will be seen the Triangle comedy with Mack Swain and Julian Moran in two parts entitled.

Head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee States He Has Discussed harmony talk. the Subject With the President. Senator Desirous of Shutting Off Debate On Administration's Foreign Policy.

Washington, March 9 .- That President Wilson does not look for war was the statement made in the senate by Senator William J. Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee. The statement was designed to reassure the country.

In a speech that forced votes in congress on the armed merchantman issue, Senator Gore declared a week ago that President Wilson had told Senator Stone and others that if a German submarine again fired on a belligerent merchantman and American lives were lost as a result, war with Germany would undoubtedly follow. It was this statement by Mr. Gore that brought to a head the dispute between congress and the president over Mr. Wilson's foreign policy.

In his statement to the senate Senator Stone made this observation: "I am sure I will not offend if I say that so far from the president desiring to involve the country in this disastrous Furopean war, his supreme wish is to avoid this calamity.'

A good deal of significance was attached to Mr. Stone's statement, in view of the fact that it was obviously inspired by the White House. Chairman Stone took pains to say that he had discussed the subject with the president. He added that he had cecided to defer for a time the delivery of a speech he had prepared on the armed merchantman issue. Mr Stone also indicated that he is desiradministration's foreign policy.

Aside from the remarks made by So Says Stone In Statement Mr. Stone there was no reference in the senate debate to the armed merchantmen dispute. Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, who was scheduled to speak, postponed his address until later in the week.

As an aftermath of the spectacular struggle to table the McLemore resolution the Democrats of the house brought their scattered forces together with a general outpouring of Representative Flood, chairman of the foreign relations committee, explaining the victory, for the administration, declared it could not have been won without the co-operation and active assistance of Speaker Clark and Representative Kitchin, whose adherence to the principle involved in the struggle was said to have been lukewarm at least.

The only colloquy in the house was forced by Representative Hopwood c: Pennsylvania asking whether there was any truth in the report that the president had changed his mind and has decided to issue a warning. Representative Elston of California, to whom the inquiry was addressed, expressed the hope that the report was "If he performs that belated duty now." he added, "he can derive ro satisfaction whatever from the vote taken Tuesday, which was not conclusive upon the issue at all."

Villa's Band Loots Ranch and Carries Off Ranchmen.

El Paso, Tex., March 9.-General Villa is known to be but a short distance south of the American border, for it was confirmed that his personal command of from 300 to 500 Mexicans raided a ranch south of Columbus, N. M., when prisoners were made of eight ranch hands, including three Americans. Four of the ranch hands, who escaped, reached Columbus and said Villa carried off Arthur McKinney, ranch foreman, and James Corbett and James O'Neill, American cowboys, when he drove off several hundred head of cattle, and also took five Mexican cowboys as prisoners.

Two American men, one woman and little American boy were captured by Villa, or men under him, near Colonia Pacheo, in the Galena district, and the men and woman were put to death, according to a report received by General Gavira in Juarez. The child, the report said, escaped with his Mexican nurse. The names of the two American men sent to General Gavira are Wright and Franklin. The murdered woman was the wife of Franklin, and the little boy was their

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of Gennes, railroad man, is rescued from danger on a scenic railroad, by torm, a newsboy. Grown to young George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight fireman, and of her father and his friends, Amos Rhineiander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight. Safebreakers employed way freight. Safebreakers employed agrue and Capelle, his lawyer, interd by Helen while stealing General less survey plans of the cut-off line and escape. Storm and Helen the murderers on a light engine and re them. Spike has hidden the plans manages to inform Seagrue where are rached. Her father's estate badvolved by his death, Helen goes to on the Tidewater. Seagrue helps to break jail and uses him to set to a powder train hauled by Storm's e. Helen saves Storm from a horriceth. Helen recovers the survey from Seagrue, and though they are from her, finds an accidentally proof of the survey blue print.

Seagrue himself took the message from Lyons. He read it with secret satisfaction. The moment Lyons had left, Seagrue called Delaney, his foreman, told him to get the gang together to unload four cars of ties the instant the local freight pulled in.

But in the interval the Tidewater camp leaders, Rhinelander and Storm, were not losing any time in looking after the shipment themselves, and they appeared together at the station to get track of it. Lyons, in response to Rhinelander's inquiries, said he did not know what the local freight was

"You find out, will you, Helen?" asked Rhinelander. And as he made the request he showed her his letter advising him the ties would be on the While Rhinelander, Storm, Helen and Lyons were thus engaged, Seagrue and his foreman, Delaney, entered the office. Seagrue seemed at his best, very affable and friendly with everybody and was soon asking ques tions as to what ties were coming for him that morning. Helen took his inquiries and Rhinelander, overhearing, explained that the ties coming in on Storm, "and keep out! Do you get the local freight train that morning that? You're talking too much." were for the Tidewater work, not for Seagrue. Seagrue declared him mis- back. It was the wrong moment to lay taken. Helen sent a hurry-up message and the answer came from the dispatcher's office within a few minutes:

"Local will set out four cars ties at Signal for Rhinelander's construction H. C. W."

Lyons, without comment, passed the message to Rhinelander, who read it and showed it triumphantly to Seagrue. Seagrue entered an emphatic dissent. "I don't care what those boobs at Oceanside say," he snapped. Those ties are for me and you'll find out I know what I'm talking about." Fast words followed. Storm and Delaney again eyed each other fiercely. Then the sound of a freight train pulling in started everybody in the room out for the platform. The moment the train stopped the disputants crowded forward, each side eager to reach the conductor first. The conductor, a man | SEE PICTURES AT THE PALACE

The purpose of the United States in seeking a final determination of the status of British merchantmen, it was explained, was not to enable the administration to decide whether or not ent merchant ships, but in order to safeguard itself from violations of the peutrality laws of the United States prohibiting offensively armed ships of | gle. a belligerent nation from clearing saip of trade.

LEGEND OF THE VAMPIRE.

Queer Beliefs That Cling About This Old World Superstition.

The vampire, according to the belief of eastern Europe, is the physical body of a dead person, male or female, that maintains itself in a sort of half life in the grave by returning to its former haunts and nourishing itself on the blood of living persons. This supersti tion is characteristically Slavonic.

The vampire superstition is strongest in White Russia and the Ukraine, though it also pervades the popular bellef in Poland and Servia, among the ice of Admiral of the Fleet Sir Alex-Czechs of Bohemia and the Slovaks of ander Milne. The admiral was a grand Hungary and is to be traced as far as old man, full of goodness and kindness, Albania and Greece. Comparative phi-but a strict disciplinarian. The gardenlology proves it to have had a common er having omitted to do something origin with the equall; hideous legend President Wilson reports concerning of the were wolf, a human being who could at will assume the appearance ico, as quickly as they were received and ferocity of a wolf, which if wounded in its nocturnal pursuits in the head dience. or limbs could not efface its injuries or had crossed the border in pursuit of escape detection when it refurned to

The vampire is to be detected during his visits to the haunts of man by his extreme paller, his unnaturally long hunder men tae dae ae job, an' noo ye breath. The vampire also throws no shadow either upon the ground or on a looking glass and is never seen to eat or drink. How he leaves and re-enters his grave is an undecided point, because no one is ever supposed to have had the courage and address to see, but the belief is that locked doors and losed windows are no bar to his movements .- London Globe.

Folk Songs of Servia.

Servian music known throughout the world, just as the composers of Aus tria. Vienna and Russia have made their folk songs known.

It is in these folk songs that the Servians express chiefly their devotion to their country and their intense patriotism. There are, of course, love songs, death songs and harvest songs, but it is in these wild patriotic outbursts that the Servian spirit is best

For the Servian is intensety patriotic. As a nation it is home loving. The principal industry is agriculture, and the natives, on accorat of the mountainous regions, have much of the spir it of the Swiss patriots.-Exchange.
